Although nonfiction film may have captured imaginations, many viewers enter and leave theaters with a nane concept of truth and reality-for them, documentaries are information sources. But is truth or reality readily available, easily acquired, or undisputed Or do documentaries convey illusions of truth and reality What aesthetic means are used to build these illusionsA documentarys sounds and images are always the product of selection and choice, and often underscore points the filmmaker wishes to make. Crafting Truth illuminates the ways these films tell their stories; how they use the camera, editing, sound, and performance; what rhetorical devices they employ; and what the theoretical, practical, and ethical implications of these choices are. Complex documentary concepts are presented through easily accessible language, images, and a discussion of a wide range of films and videos to encourage new ways of thinking about and seeing nonfiction film.
